

Dear FCC, I don't see how BPL could co-exist with other users of the frequency spectrum. We 50 mhz users already have enough headaches with the never ending battle of power line interference. There is always something loose of a defective part on the powerlines it seems. Having the power lines transmit seems crazy. There is already 3 different methods to get internet here in Smith Center Kansas. Sincerely Larry Lambert